Planning how to learn CFD

I found this link to an article that details a route to Master CFD. It seems good from my initial read and from recommendations on Reddit. Read it first, bookmark it, and then continue here. Support the Author!! They have put in effort to help out people. I will try to follow along and report back on how it went. I would also like to list out topics and possible references and order of studies, unlike the list of "Study these from here using this" as presented on the website.

Mathematics

Fluid Mechanics

Heat Transfer
